Clarke Denies Order To Unmask Has Been Issued

ATLANTA, Ga., July 24.—Edward Young Clarke, Imperial Wizard of the Ku Klux Klan, late today issued a statement denying that he had unmasked the Ku Klux Klan in Georgia or any other part of the country.

The only thing he did, Mr. Clarke said, was to issue an executive order, applying only to Georgia, forbidding the use of the mask and costume for any purpose in Georgia by the Klansmen except in the klavern or lodge room of the Klan.

Emphasizing that the executive order was confined to Georgia, Mr. Clarke said the statement said:

"The correspondence between myself and Governor Harwick regarding the Ku Klux Klan published in the Sunday papers has been grossly twisted and it is causing considerable misunderstanding on account of this."

First: I have not unmasked the Ku Klux Klan in Georgia or anywhere else in the nation. The only thing I did was to issue an executive order stopping for the time being all parades and the use of the mask and costume for any purpose in Georgia by Klansmen except in the klavern or lodge room of the Klan.

Second: The order affected Georgia only, and the statement which has been broadcasted that it applied to the entire nation has caused a flood of telegrams to be received at headquarters and considerable confusion in the ranks of the organization all over the country.

In explanation of the reason why I issued the order stopping parades and the use of the mask and costume in Georgia for the present time, I desire to say that I did so because of concerted effort at the present time in Georgia to make it appear that the Ku Klux Klan is either directly responsible for the acts of lawlessness in the state or indirectly responsible because of imitation of our costume by lawless elements or by those seeking to discredit our organization. I thought the best way to clear up such a situation was to issue the executive order which I did, and when I discussed the matter with the governor he agreed with me that this would solve the problem.

In addition to the executive order stopping parades I have also issued orders for a sixty day educational campaign in Georgia by a large body of Klan speakers in order to educate the public regarding the Klan and its costume.

"I have also ordered a searching inquiry into recent crimes in Georgia and believe we shall be able to show that not one per cent of same in any way involve the Ku Klux Klan."

"I issued last fall a similar executive order in Texas where the state was in the midst of turbulent conditions regarding law enforcement and had under way in the state centered fight on the Klan by those who wanted to see us destroyed. My order in Texas was faithfully carried out and the situation in Texas is now the satisfaction of all concerned except those who wanted to see the Klan destroyed."

A thousand workmen who will get most of this money are here shown leaving for their noon-day meal. Another thousand men are employed in finishing the battleship WEST VIRGINIA—both jobs being secured in the face of powerful political opposition by Senator Claude A. Swanson.

Seeks British Aid In Curbing Liquor Running

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(By The Associated Press)—The state department was without any official word today as to the British attitude in connection with suggestions made by the American government to the British authorities for co-operative British measures to curb liquor running from British insular possessions into the United States. Pending receipt of the official communication from the London foreign office comment was refused at the department on the nature of the American note, although Mr. Haynes suggested that the British government be asked to lend its aid in stamping out this smuggling traffic not upon the basis of any specific agreement of any treaty between the two countries, but under the general principle of the comity of nations which is the basis of all such international engagements.

WOODEN JEWELRY IS THE LATEST OUT

SAO PAULO, Brazil, July 24.—In prehistoric days, the "old man" took his stone axe to the quarry and chipped out a necklace of basalt for the wife's birthday.

Later he fashioned the necklace of a section of raw copper or a piece of leather cord with a snake's rattle and a handful of shark's teeth strung thereon.

After that the missionaries probably got his descendants in their clutches and converted tastes in jewelry to pink blue beads.

It has remained for a school of arts and crafts in Sao Paulo to fill in the gap with the "wooder" age.

Now, if the traveler knows where to find the institution, he may deck the wife out in the latest thing in mahogany necklaces and earrings, Spanish and Parisian combs of black wood from Rio Grande do Sul and mosaic bracelets with what looks like a golden oak foundation, built up with bits of colored wood arranged in Grecian or modern patterns.

Wooden jewelry is to be recommended as having the point of economy in its favor, but if the shopper is a connoisseur she begins to argue fine points of arrangement and whether her bracelet is made of a single circular cut of a branch and just what kind of a setting the motif has. Thus the field broadens out until it is harder work to buy gems than had their origin in a lumber yard than it is to select half a pint of seed pearls.

Brazil has approximately 200 classes of wood from which to make necklaces and some of these are of rare and beautiful colors when properly polished. There are brilliant reds and greens that may be worked out in veritable floral cross-stitch patterns of mosaic and there are yellows that have the richness and gloss of gold.

Others look like ivory and others like ebony and still another somewhat like tortoise shell. A student with a keen eye and steady hand can work out with no other material

Mr. Haynes was understood to have pointed out in his communication to Secretary Hughes that the British authorities could easily put a check on shipments of liquor destined for this country by close supervision of clearance papers for vessels leaving British ports.

Presumably it is this view that has been communicated by the Washington government to the London authorities and to which the London authorities refer in saying that the British authorities had sought information as to alleged "false clearances" granted at Bermuda or elsewhere.

So far as the right of search of foreign vessels beyond the three mile limit is concerned, it was pointed out here that the matter was now before the American courts in the case of the British schooner Marshall which was seized as a liquor runner beyond the limits of territorial waters. Presumably any agreement between the two governments on this point would follow judicial action to determine the American policy as to how far at sea national jurisdiction for customs or prohibition purposes might run.

WOODEN JEWELRY IS THE LATEST OUT

SAO PAULO, Brazil, July 24.—In prehistoric days, the "old man" took his stone axe to the quarry and chipped out a necklace of basalt for the wife's birthday.

Later he fashioned the necklace of a section of raw copper or a piece of leather cord with a snake's rattle and a handful of shark's teeth strung thereon.

After that the missionaries probably got his descendants in their clutches and converted tastes in jewelry to pink blue beads.

It has remained for a school of arts and crafts in Sao Paulo to fill in the gap with the "wooder" age.

Now, if the traveler knows where to find the institution, he may deck the wife out in the latest thing in mahogany necklaces and earrings, Spanish and Parisian combs of black wood from Rio Grande do Sul and mosaic bracelets with what looks like a golden oak foundation, built up with bits of colored wood arranged in Grecian or modern patterns.

Wooden jewelry is to be recommended as having the point of economy in its favor, but if the shopper is a connoisseur she begins to argue fine points of arrangement and whether her bracelet is made of a single circular cut of a branch and just what kind of a setting the motif has. Thus the field broadens out until it is harder work to buy gems than had their origin in a lumber yard than it is to select half a pint of seed pearls.

Brazil has approximately 200 classes of wood from which to make necklaces and some of these are of rare and beautiful colors when properly polished. There are brilliant reds and greens that may be worked out in veritable floral cross-stitch patterns of mosaic and there are yellows that have the richness and gloss of gold.

Others look like ivory and others like ebony and still another somewhat like tortoise shell. A student with a keen eye and steady hand can work out with no other material

PHILIPPINE CONSTABLES TAKE APPEAL TO SUPREME COURT

WASHINGTON, July 24.—Can the Supreme Court of the Philippines increase the penalty, in a criminal case, from life imprisonment to hanging? The Supreme Court of the United States will have this interesting question to pass upon if it grants an application of counsel for members of the Philippine Constabulary convicted of murder, in connection with a riot 18 months ago, for a writ of certiorari and reverses the decision of the Manila tribunal.

Under a law in force in the Philippines the Supreme Court has authority to increase penalties. Presumably this statute was enacted to discourage appeals of purely technical questions for purposes of delay.

In the riot in December, 1920, 10 persons lost their lives. The Manila police had had occasion to handle some of the rioters and a few members of the constabulary. Non-commissioned officers and privates of the constabulary determined to get even and did so in the memorable riot.

They were tried in the civil courts and 11 non-commissioned officers and 66 privates to 17 years' penal servitude. Under the laws of the Philippines an appeal was taken to the Supreme court, in the hope of having the sentences reduced.

However, the Supreme Court took a wholly different view of the matter and instead of reducing the sentences increased those of the 11 non-commissioned officers to hanging and gave the 66 privates life imprisonment.

The theory of counsel for the condemned men is that, under the Constitution, the Manila Supreme Court has no authority to place men in jeopardy of their lives a second time.

Clarke Denies Order To Unmask Has Been Issued

ATLANTA, Ga., July 24.—Edward Young Clarke, Imperial Wizard of the Ku Klux Klan, late today issued a statement denying that he had unmasked the Ku Klux Klan in Georgia or any other part of the country.

The only thing he did, Mr. Clarke said, was to issue an executive order, applying only to Georgia, forbidding the use of the mask and costume for any purpose in Georgia by the Klansmen except in the klavern or lodge room of the Klan.

Emphasizing that the executive order was confined to Georgia, Mr. Clarke said the statement said:

"The correspondence between myself and Governor Harwick regarding the Ku Klux Klan published in the Sunday papers has been grossly twisted and it is causing considerable misunderstanding on account of this."

First: I have not unmasked the Ku Klux Klan in Georgia or anywhere else in the nation. The only thing I did was to issue an executive order stopping for the time being all parades and the use of the mask and costume for any purpose in Georgia by Klansmen except in the klavern or lodge room of the Klan.

Second: The order affected Georgia only, and the statement which has been broadcasted that it applied to the entire nation has caused a flood of telegrams to be received at headquarters and considerable confusion in the ranks of the organization all over the country.

In explanation of the reason why I issued the order stopping parades and the use of the mask and costume in Georgia for the present time, I desire to say that I did so because of concerted effort at the present time in Georgia to make it appear that the Ku Klux Klan is either directly responsible for the acts of lawlessness in the state or indirectly responsible because of imitation of our costume by lawless elements or by those seeking to discredit our organization. I thought the best way to clear up such a situation was to issue the executive order which I did, and when I discussed the matter with the governor he agreed with me that this would solve the problem.

In addition to the executive order stopping parades I have also issued orders for a sixty day educational campaign in Georgia by a large body of Klan speakers in order to educate the public regarding the Klan and its costume.

"I have also ordered a searching inquiry into recent crimes in Georgia and believe we shall be able to show that not one per cent of same in any way involve the Ku Klux Klan."

"I issued last fall a similar executive order in Texas where the state was in the midst of turbulent conditions regarding law enforcement and had under way in the state centered fight on the Klan by those who wanted to see us destroyed. My order in Texas was faithfully carried out and the situation in Texas is now the satisfaction of all concerned except those who wanted to see the Klan destroyed."

KIWANIS CLUB PICNIC PUT OFF

The all day picnic which was to have been held Thursday of this week by the Kiwanis Club, has been postponed until September, due to the absence from the city of a large number of the members, as well as employees on vacation. Preliminary plans were well under way for an old fashioned barbecue given and the committee in charge had selected a fine site about three miles from Danville. It is the intention of the club to hold the picnic on a date that will assure the attendance of practically every member and so on and so forth.

STRIKERS WILL ACCEPT ORDER

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., July 24.—Striking shop craftsmen named in recent temporary injunction granted by Federal Judge H. D. Clayton to the Florida East Coast railroad, refused to contest the order when it came up for hearing today. Judge Clayton entered an interlocutory injunction to take the place of the order which restrains strikers from interfering with the company's property, employees or prospective employees.

The injunction applied to the entire system of the East Coast. The strikers were not represented in court by counsel today but explained their position through their spokesman, R. D. Roberts.

All we desire is the protection of our constitutional rights," Roberts said. "It is the intention of the striking shop forces to conduct their strike in an orderly and peaceful manner and not to appear arbitrary to the law of the land in any respect."

Senators Fleeced By Slick Stranger

Pseudo" Constituent Makes Mistake of Calling Twice Upon Dial—Others Were Victimized.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—Senatorial courtesy has been imposed upon again.

One evening nearly two weeks ago as Senator Nathaniel B. Dial, Democrat, South Carolina, was preparing to retire, the telephone rang. A male voice of soft tone apologized for disturbing him at such an hour, but declared he had just discovered the embarrassing fact that he lacked enough money to buy a railroad ticket to his home in Newberry, S. C., and wanted a bit of temporary assistance.

As he gave the name of a prominent Newberry family, disclosed familiarity with the senator, and discussed local business conditions with facility, Mr. Dial told him not to worry about the time of night, but to come on out.

A thoughtful, well-dressed man soon was ushered into the senator's presence. The latter explained that he carried very little money and had but $8. The stranger thought this would be very helpful.

"But it will not get you to Newberry," the senator said, in effect, "let me go down to the grocery store and I'll get some more."

The senator had his check cashed for $16 and turned over $18 to his grateful constituent, who left at once for Newberry.

A few days later Mr. Dial learned his mistake. Several other senators had undergone similar treatment. He was, therefore, considerably heated when he saw the visitor enter his office late Saturday afternoon.

He was called by telephone. Senator Dial personally seeing to it there was no escape, and when the man was carried to detective headquarters he gave the name of D. J. Connolly, of Macon, Ga.

He was identified by several other senators as one who had obtained money from them in the role of constituent. Two senators, Spencer, of Missouri, and Nicholson, Colorado, failed to identify him as the man who duped them several weeks ago. Detectives are working on the theory that congressmen generally have been worked by a gang.

The man caught by Senator Dial was identified by the following:

Senator Morris Sheppard, of Texas, who advanced $29; Senator Duncan U. Fletcher, of Florida, $10; Senator Harris, of Georgia, 75 cents; and Representative Frank B. Park, of Georgia, $97.66.

Senator Nicholson said the man who duped him got $10 worse than the money he had given him. The man who saw Mr. Nicholson gave the name of J. I. Parker, and claimed to have a bank account in the senator's bank. The senator was called by telephone. Detectives are working on the theory that congressmen generally have been worked by a gang.

Senator Spencer several weeks ago advanced $29 on a plea of a "constituent" but did not identify Connolly.

Representative Jefferson, of Nebraska, is said also to have been duped.

Connolly became all upon being taken to police headquarters and was sent to Washington asylum for treatment and observation.

Witnesses Missing In Arson Case

(Special to The Bee.)

MARTINSVILLE, Va., July 25.—Commonwealth's Attorney J. R. Taylor has asked for the arrest of Dick Warren, Tom Stanley and Archer Spencer, who are witnesses in the case of the Commonwealth against R. Bruce Land, a prominent citizen of this place, who is charged with setting fire to his automobile for the purpose of securing $1,400 insurance money.

The three men in question are vital witnesses for the state and were summoned to appear in court several days ago for a preliminary hearing in the case. When the case was called, however, it was found that the men had gone and enquiry led to the discovery that they had been seen boarding a train for Roanoke the day before the hearing. Since that time they have not been seen.

Frank Warren is alleged to have made a statement to the commonwealth's attorney that he burned the car and that he was hired to do so by Land. He is said to have stated that he poured gasoline over the cushions of the machine, removed to insulation from a wire so as to cause a spark, this igniting the machine which was destroyed. The car was burned on the Roanoke road where, it is said, Warren has confessed driving the machine. Dick Warren is alleged to have told state officials that Land had offered him five per cent. of the insurance money to burn the car on July 8th, but he had declined to be party to this offense. These statements are said to have been obtained by the detective of the insurance company who came here and made a thorough investigation.

Land is under $2,500 bond for appearance in court July 29th.

NEW YORK, July 25.—Use of shipyard machine shops for repairing automobiles is being reported as the latest development in the shipyard's strike. Drop Disaster Indictments

WASHINGTON, July 24.—Indictments against five persons in connection with the Knickerbocker theater disaster of last January, in which 97 lives were lost, were dismissed today. Justice Siddons, of the District of Columbia Supreme court, sustained demurrers.

The indictments charged manslaughter against Reginald W. Geare, the architect of the theater; John H. Ford, the iron work contractor; Julian H. Downman, building inspector; Richard G. Fletcher, cement contractor; and Donald M. Wallace, foreman for the building contractor.

The court held the indictment defective and insufficient in that the material and essential facts forming the basis of the alleged offense were not set out with reasonable certainty and the indictment therefore was too vague, indefinite and uncertain.

The indictment failed to show what act or acts of negligence were committed by each of the accused persons, the court decided. The theory of the case is that each of the five men undertook a gigantic work and that each was required to know and to see that the others properly performed their portion of the task. The general charge of failure and neglect set out in the indictment was therefore too vague, indefinite and uncertain.

United States Attorney Peyton Gordon noted an appeal from the decision to the court of appeals.

Baby Farm Found When Infant Dies

NEW YORK, July 24.—A baby farm within a stone's throw of fashionable Riverside Drive was disclosed today following the death of Robbie Milstein, 4 months old, while under the care of Mrs. Ida Tufts, 53 years old, who was arrested charged with running the farm in violation of public health laws.

Mrs. Tufts was taken into custody in her apartment on a complaint filed by the Children's society.

After investigating the death of the baby, the police decided that there was no reason to hold Mrs. Tufts responsible. The only charge formally entered against her was that of maintaining a nursery without a license.

Three other babies were found in the Tufts' apartment and following the woman's arrest were removed to Bellevue hospital. They were reported to be in good physical condition, and were taken to the hospital only to be cared for until their parents could be notified and other arrangements made for their care.

Kansas Row Principals

William Allen White (above), Kansas editor and author, says the Kansas industrial law is being used to repress free speech. So he posted a sign in the window of his newspaper, the Emporia Gazette, expressing sympathy for the rail strikers, hoping to make a case of it. His friend, Governor Henry J. Allen (below), immediately ordered White's arrest. Both say the proceeding will not interfere with their friendship for each other.

The awarding of contracts on the work which is ready to be started temporarily held up until the chairman and the new commission have considered the projects, rights of way and other matters pertaining to them. The provision of the new law which requires that the funds shall be equitably distributed among the eight construction districts has also contributed to the delay in awarding the contracts.

As soon as the new mill is ready to begin grinding, contracts will be fed into it just as rapidly as they can be economically handled. The mill will mean every penny of this year's funds will be placed under contract before many days.

The expanding and reorganization of the various departments of the work is going forward just as rapidly as it is possible to be done. Chairman Shirley is giving his particular attention at this time to the reorganization and development, as this work is specifically placed directly on the commission.

As soon as this department is ready to be starting of all rights of way over the state will be placed in its charge with instructions from the commission to secure the rights of way on every project ready for contract as speedily and economically as it is possible to do so.

The road building which the department will have ready will require action by the general assembly. Under the present law there is only $3,000,000 in sight for new construction of state highways in 1932. This includes the proceeds of the mill tax, which is estimated at $1,800,000, the appropriation made by the general assembly of $315,000, and federal aid amounting to $950,000.

Under the law, the entire proceeds of the automobile license fees will go to maintenance after December 31, 1932. At the present time one-third is used for construction.

The only other possible source of funds under the present law is from loans made by counties, individuals and towns under the Robertson act and which must be repaid.

Only the localities which can afford to loan the money without interest to the state and whose offers are accepted by the State Highway commission can benefit from funds made available from this source.

The shooting took place in the woman's room. She stated that Hairston assaulted her last night, and she ordered him from the premises. Today he returned, being armed, and took a pistol out of a dresser drawer and shot him once.

RUN AUTO ON AIR

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., July 24.—A compressed air automobile engine that will revolutionize the motor car industry is the invention claimed by Christian Edwards, formerly of Detroit, who came here for his health. Edwards claims his engine will develop 1,500 horsepower on air. The motor requires neither gas, oil, electricity, or water to operate, he says, and is practically silent running. Compressed air is used in the motor. The same air is used over and over, according to Edwards.

Highway Board Starts To Work

RICHMOND, July 24.—Feeling that the people of Virginia will provide the money needed early this year so that contracts can be let and other preparations made at once for a greatly enlarged road building program to start with early spring, the new State Highway Commission has authorized the enlargement of all departments in preparation for the work the commission confidently expects is ahead of them.

Commissioner George P. Coleman has been authorized to add three to four new field parties in addition to the three parties now in the field on surveys, according to Henry G. Shirley, chairman of the State Highway Commission. The force in the drafting and computing rooms will be materially increased.

Mr. Shirley stated that it is in the intention of the commission just as soon as the various departments can be enlarged and organized to take care of the work, to turn out completed plans for an average of 50 miles of road per month. This can be materially speeded up as the state provides more funds with which to build the roads. The commission is hopeful that the additional funds can be available early so that additional contracts can be let this fall and winter, as it is believed work can be let earlier than in the early spring.

One of the first acts of the new State Highway Commission was to take steps to secure more commodious quarters than those afforded in the old residence at Third and Canal streets. The new commission decided that the large amount of work ahead of the department could not be economically handled in the crowded space, and that the state could not afford to wait until September, 1932, when the new state office building is expected to be ready, for additional office space.

Accordingly, the old Women's College building at Tenth and Marshall streets was leased and the department will move into their new temporary home on August 1. This building in addition to being much larger is within two blocks of the capitol and in easy access of the public.

At the present time, stated Commissioner Coleman, surveys for 72 miles of road have been completed, of which plans and estimates of 107 miles have been prepared and the work ready to let.

The awarding of contracts on the work which is ready to be started temporarily held up until the chairman and the new commission have considered the projects, rights of way and other matters pertaining to them. The provision of the new law which requires that the funds shall be equitably distributed among the eight construction districts has also contributed to the delay in awarding the contracts.

Emergency Coal Program to Be Operative Soon

Censor Movies On August 1

RICHMOND, July 24.—The law providing for the censorship of motion pictures becomes effective August 1, 1932, on and after which date every film publicly exhibited in this state must carry either a license or a permit, and must show upon the screen certain identification matter prescribed by the State Board of Censors.

Permits are issued by the board chiefly in connection with "used films"—pictures which have been exhibited in Virginia at any time prior to August 1, 1932. The statute does not require the examination of these old films by the board. Authority for their continued use is given when application for the permit is made with the serial number given it by the board, and should bear the words: "Permit issued by the Virginia State Board of Censors."

With practically no exceptions, save the case of "current events" or "news pictures," educational films and scientific pictures, all new films—that is, all films released after August 1, 1932, must be examined and passed upon by the board before being exhibited. Subject to certain rights of appeal, not necessary to mention here, new pictures may be rejected in toto, modified in part, or passed without any changes at all. But whether modified in part, or approved in their entirety, new films must show upon their principal title, not only the serial number given by the board, but also this inscription:

"Licensed by the Virginia State Board of Censors."

Every new film shown in Virginia on and after August 1 of this year, must exhibit beneath its title a "seal trailer" giving its serial number and indicating that either a permit or a license for the picture has been. To omit this "trailer" is to violate the law and to court prosecution.

Under the law no motion picture or any part thereof will be licensed, if declared by the board to be obscene, indecent, immoral or inhuman, or which is of such a character that it exhibition would tend to corrupt morals or incite crime.

The Virginia State Board of Censors has its headquarters at 215 East Grace street, Richmond, and is composed of the following members: Evan R. Chesterman, chairman; Mrs. Emma Speed Sampson, vice chairman and secretary; and R. C. L. Moncure. It is supported entirely by fees accruing from licenses and permits. The amount of these fees is regulated by the footage of the films.

The Wear Is In A Roof—Not On It

The service you get from asphalt roofing depends on the toughness and durability of the impregnated felt that gives it body and strength. A roof doesn't wear down; it wears out.

Long life is built into Flex-a-Tile Roofing, FELT FIRST. Felt-making is an art in itself—an art that more than 50 years of Richardson experience has reduced to a science.

In Flex-a-Tile Shingle Roll Roofing you get the very best grade of slate-surface roll roofing with an unusual added feature—the appearance of individual Giant Shingles, molded on. Shingle Roll gives the beauty of an asphalt shingle roof at less than half its cost.

FLEX-A-TILE HOUSE TOPS

The double coating of crushed slate from our own quarries at Flex-a-Tile, Georgia, furnishes a rich coloring of natural green (or red if you prefer), adds to the looks of the roof and carries the approval of the Fire Underwriters Laboratories as a fire-resisting roof covering.

Flex-a-Tile Shingle Roll Roofing can be laid right over old wood shingles by anyone who is handy with tools. It lies flat and stays flat.

Northcliffe's Strange Ills Baffle Doctors

LONDON, July 24.—Lord Northcliffe, owner of the London Times and many other British and continental publications, is in the most critical period of his serious illness today. The publisher's condition was described by his physicians as "having risen to grave anxiety." A fever, due to infection from toxic poisoning, remains unabated, the doctors said. An official of the Times declared leading physicians are puzzled as to the exact nature of Lord Northcliffe's illness, and are unable definitely to diagnose it. Lord Northcliffe was taken ill immediately after returning from a trip through Germany, incognito, early in June.

The condition of Sterling J. Anderson, who is very ill at Edmunds hospital shows no improvement. A consultation is being held today relative to a surgical operation which may be deemed necessary.

PAINS SO BAD WOULD GO TO BED

Two Women Tell How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Stopped Their Suffering

Iron Mountain, Mich.—"I had terrible pains every month and at times had to go to bed on account of them. I saw your advertisement and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound with very good results. I can now work all day long now at my sick time. You may use these facts as a testimonial and I am recommending the Vegetable Compound to my friends."—Mrs. A. H. GARLAND, 218 E. Brown St., Iron Mountain, Michigan.

Xenia, Ohio.—"Every month I had such pains in my back and lower part of my abdomen that I could not lie quietly in bed. I suffered for about five years that way and I was not regular either. I read an advertisement of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for other women, so I decided to try it. It surely has helped me a lot, as I have no pains now and am regular and feeling fine."—Mrs. MARY DALE, Route 7, Xenia, Ohio.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medicine for women's ailments. It is especially adapted to relieve women. If you suffer as did Mrs. Garland or Mrs. Dale, you should give this well-known medicine a thorough trial.

Weeks Approves Pershing Scheme Of Preparedness

Complete Organization of Peace Establishment to Overcome Attacks at Outset Urged—Initial Success to Allow Development of Power.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—Secretary Weeks made public tonight with his formal approval a memorandum submitted by Gen. Pershing outlining in a forceful manner "a national position of readiness."

Gen. Pershing at the outset quotes a provision of the national defense act of 1916, which prescribes that the organized peace establishment, comprising the regular army, the national guard and the organized reserves, shall include all of these divisions and other military organizations necessary to carry out the mobilization of the national defense in the event of a national emergency, declared by Congress.

"The evident intent of this provision," he says, "is that the system of national defense shall be definitely organized, that the military units required for service in any emergency shall be constituted in time of peace, and that each of them shall be prepared to undertake its initial mission in time to meet the requirements of the situation."

Would Meet Emergency
"So far as the defense of continental United States is concerned, the law evidently contemplates as a minimum requirement for security that we should be definitely organized to prevent an invasion in force at the outbreak of hostilities. If this be assured, then without danger of an adverse decision at the beginning of the war, we shall be able to develop such further military power as the particular emergency may require."

Gen. Pershing points out that before the war such a comprehensive plan was impracticable, since our military resources were too limited and there was no legal sanction for the development of such a system. Since the war, he says, the situation has entirely changed, and it is now possible to prepare definite plans along these lines.

"I am pleased to report," he continues, "that the plans for the 'national position in readiness' have reached a stage where their practicability is assured if we can count upon a reasonable development of the economical military system sanctioned by the national defense act. With eighteen divisions and appropriate auxiliaries of the national guard supplemented by the regular army prepared for necessary mobilization and with certain special units organized in the organized reserves we shall be able to cover our coasts and land frontiers against serious invasion at the start."

Behind this first line the remaining units of the organized reserves fully constituted by the framework of officers and non-commissioned officers, will be prepared to undertake training of their rank and file. Once we shall thus be able deliberately to develop our military power to any necessary extent without risk of serious disaster through surprise at the outbreak of war and without the necessity of maintaining a burdensome military establishment in time of peace. Such a military organization causes no menace to any other nation, but insures the independence of continental United States in the event of attack by any possible hostile combination."

The initial division of a national guard division, Gen. Pershing points out, "contemplates a minimum development of training which must be assured in time of peace, the extent to which it must be initially supplied with equipment, and the place where it will have its original concentration."

He holds it obvious that this plan will greatly simplify training, equipment and mobilization projects. He concludes:

"The character of our military resources, as well as our attitude toward other nations, impress upon us an initial strategic defensive. But this does not involve repoussing a subsequent offensive. Had the United States in the spring of 1917 possessed 25 or 30 divisions completely organized and equipped but only insufficiently trained to meet the requirements of the national position in readiness, above outlined, each of these divisions would have been advanced many months as compared with the entirely new divisions that it was necessary to create."

"Each of these divisions could have mobilized locally and proceeded at once with the special training required by the European situation, thereby avoiding the cost of extensive concentration camps and railroad transportation. Under such circumstances the period for the beginning of American offensive operations on a large scale would have been greatly advanced."

Masterdon Remains Found Near Yukon

EDMONTON, Alta., July 24.—In a valley of the far northern section of British Columbia, close to the Yukon border, which it is believed was never before visited by a white man, Frank Perry, mining engineer of Vancouver, has discovered the remains of mastodons that once roamed Northern Canada. The location of the valley is not marked on maps, but it is north and west of the headwaters of the Pindley river. Indians will not travel through the valley, believing it to be haunted by the giant animals whose bones they have seen.

In addition to the bones there are footprints in the sandstone and shale of some other prehistoric monster; these are clearly defined marks showing that the maker of the tracks was a three-toed animal.

The bones, which are of great size, are not fossilized but are in a state of excellent preservation. Hip bones and sections of the spine were found by Mr. Perry, who believes that by excavation specimens of much historic value could be unearthed.

Mr. Perry, a recent visitor here, spent 14 years in the far northern territory in the quest of minerals, two pack dogs being his companions. Neither canoes nor pack horses can be used to gain access to the district, where these remains were found, and so far the only manner of traveling has been to live on the game, using dogs to pack the camp equipment on their backs. It requires a year to make the journey in this way, but an airplane could cover the distance in a few days.

Justice of Peace Is Facing Charge

LYNCHBURG, July 25.—Disposition of the rule against John W. Fortune, a justice of the peace for Campbell county, looking to his removal from office because of conviction in the courts of Lynchburg for drunkenness, has been continued to the September term of the circuit court of the county. Justice Fortune continues to discharge the duties of his office in the suburbs of the city. The rule for his removal was started upon motion of Thomas Whitchard, attorney for the prohibition department of the State.

Fiction Villain Clings To That Dark Mustache

CHICAGO, July 25.—Black mustaches may have disappeared from the face of America but the lay public today is as insistent as ever before that its fiction and movie villains wear them.

This and other popular conceptions of "bad men" were pointed out here today by Tom Peete Cross, professor of comparative literature at the University of Chicago, who was one of the judges in the selection of a $10,000 prize-winning scenario from the 27,000 that were entered by amateur writers in a picture-play contest recently conducted by The Chicago Daily News.

"Smooth-shaven faces have been the style ever since nine-tenths of the amateur writers were born," said Dr. Cross. "But the great majority of the contestants specified in their stories that their scoundrels should have bold black mustaches. The idea that dark hair across the upper lip denotes wickedness is an ancient one, handed down in folk stories from the Northern European peoples."

"Those blonde rascals have implanted popular beliefs and ideas in the United States today, inheritance telling their superstitions to us over and over again. Their folk and fairy tales are ours. They were always at war with peoples of the southern European nations and grew to associate the black hair and mustaches of those enemies with general villainy and wickedness."

"They terrified their children with stories, myths and legends of black whiskered marauders and murderers. Sea riders and buccannars of a later period cultivated the sweeping sable mustache as a symbol of ferocity and a means of spreading terror. So the deeply was this superstition implanted in the popular mind that Americans of nearly all races today unconsciously adopt it."

"Another popular idea about villains as shown by the 27,000 writers is that cigarettes today are tokens of weakness and untrustworthiness, that cigars are symbols of ruthlessness and harshness, but that pipe smoking indicates strength, manliness, gentleness of soul, simple honesty and general heroism."

"This may seem odd in a lay when cigarette smoking is very general, but it is the survival of strong and violent opinions taken by the public fifty years ago and which lives on in the race's unconscious views and come to light in its writings."

Mrs. Hoge's Attitude Much Discussed

BRISTOL, Va., July 25.—Southwest Virginia's interest in the Swanston-Davis senatorial fight is at present centered about polemical developments of the past week which have involved action taken by the Bristol and Abingdon Women's Christian Temperance Unions. It is expected that the subject will again be presented at the next meeting of the Bristol W. C. T. U.

Development came when a leading member of the Bristol union brought to a local newspaper for publication a signed statement saying that the union here in a meeting had endorsed "the position of the state president, Mrs. Howard M. Hoge, of Purcellville, in saying she was going to support former Governor Westmoreland Davis in his race for senator." The statement was published.

A day or so later the Abingdon W. C. T. U. assailed resolutions on the question. These resolutions were signed by Mrs. M. F. Crabbes, president, and Mrs. C. N. Mason, secretary, and were published. These resolutions were to the effect that the W. C. T. U. seems to have been locally committed to the candidacy of one senatorial candidate, our local chapter of Abingdon takes this method of declaring its non-partisanship; we claim the privilege of studying principles and as individuals will cast our influence to the one in whom these principles are best exemplified."

The next step came when Mrs. W. H. Fillingier, president of the Bristol union, issued a statement commenting on the action alleged to have been taken at a meeting of the local body. Mrs. Fillingier declared "Mrs. Hoge's attitude was discussed but no action was taken. In fact, surprise was expressed over Mrs. Hoge publicly expressing her preference."

The newspaper here which had published an account of the action taken at the meeting of the Bristol union, announced that the statement was brought to its office by Mrs. Robert L. Owen, a leading member of the union. Her signed statement is being preserved by the paper. Mrs. Owen is out of the city.

SCORNS DEATH AS LAWYERS FIGHT TO CHEAT GALLOWS

JAMES E. MAHONEY

SEATTLE, Wash., July 25.—In the very shadow of death, James E. Mahoney, sentenced to hang for the murder of a woman, is fighting to escape the gallows.

His friends and lawyers are working to get him a new trial, but the prosecution insists that he is guilty. Mahoney is now in the county jail, and his friends are trying to get him out on bail. The case is being heard in the superior court of King county.

In the spring of 1921, Mahoney married a woman named Mary. They lived together for some time, but then Mahoney disappeared. His wife was found in a state of distress, and Mahoney was arrested. He is now facing a charge of first-degree murder.

DEMOCRACY IS MADE ISSUE IN JILTED GIRL'S LAWSUIT

LANDIS GROUSE

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 25.—Hasing, Miss Grouse says, "That they could never accept a working girl into their set."

A just answer that question, asked by Miss Landis Grouse, 23-year-old stenographer, who has filed a $50,000 breach of promise suit against a millionaire business man here 40 years her senior.

She charges she was left waiting at the church because she is a working girl; that her elderly suitor had bought her a $1,500 engagement ring and a $4,000 automobile, planned a brilliant church wedding and a honeymoon to China—but that he called off the wedding because women of his set turned "thumbs down" on her.

"They told him I worked for a living," she said. "The first time I met him, he was very kind and charming. He was a millionaire and I was a stenographer. He asked me to marry him and I said yes. He bought me a car and a ring, and he planned a wedding. But then he told me that he could not marry me because I was a working girl. He said that the people in his set would not accept me. He said that he was sorry and that he would give me the money back. But he did not. He left me and I am now a poor girl."

NATURE FAKERS BUSY. ROOSTER'S SPUR PUNCTURES AN AUTOMOBILE TIRE

TAZEWELL, July 25.—J. W. Hoback, of Burke's Garden, came over to Tazewell the first of the week on business.

Mr. Hoback has a son, L. F., living on the main road into the Garden, who has a large flock of Rhode Island Red chickens. A story has been circulated that a large red rooster of Mr. Hoback's flock obstructed the passage of an automobile on this road one Sunday afternoon, much to the rooster's disgust, and that the driver of the car discovered afterwards that one of the "spurs" off the rooster's hind legs had punctured a left hind tire.

This story may not be true, but here is one that sounds more reasonable. A Ford was rattling along the road and ran over a rattlesnake, and before the car could clear the reptile the snake had struck all four tires and punctured them. The snake's rattles were later discovered, and a careful count showed there were seventeen of them and four buttons, making it rather many years older than that alleged by nature.

There are many snake stories and out some of them coming from the Best Town section of Burke's Garden.

He was put on trial, convicted and sentenced to hang.

Now his lawyers are trying to locate the $1,100 withdrawn from the bank, so that they can ask for a new trial.

But Mahoney keeps on laughing.

DRUGGIST MAKES GREAT DISCOVERY FOR INDIGESTION

New Cordial Called "Anti-Ferment," Originated By a Druggist and Recommended by Physicians, Neutralizes Acid Condition of Stomach, Prevents Fermentation and Brings Instant Relief.

Indigestion and its attendant ills, such as dyspepsia, heartburn, sour stomach, grating pains, dysentery, diarrhea, colic, cholera morbus, chronic constipation, gas, etc., and even such serious headaches are now directly traceable to disorders in the digestive tract.

The food source before it is fully digested thus putting into solution toxic poisons that are absorbed into the system, poisoning the arteries and causing the inflammation. To guard the system, have to prevent fermentation by using Anti-Ferment.

Anti-Ferment neutralizes the acid condition of the stomach, dissolves and breaks down the food particles, and thus prevents the formation of gas and poisons. The food is thus made more easily digestible and the system is kept in perfect health. Anti-Ferment from your druggist will give you relief from indigestion, gas, heartburn, sour stomach, etc., and will make you feel better than you ever felt in your life.—adv.

FINDING OF FOUR GIRLS' BODIES LEADS TO PHYSICIAN'S ARREST

EASTON, Mo., July 24.—This town is aroused by the greatest upheaval in its history. Today the authorities of Arostock county exhumed the bodies of four girls buried here. All are believed to have died as the result of illegal operations performed by a physician of Easton.

The proceedings have been cloaked with considerable mystery. It is said the physician's office was headquarters for traffic in illegal operations which brought terror-stricken young women patients from all over New England.

"The four bodies exhumed today are but a part of those who died as a result of the operations, it is said. A physician fled to St. John, N. B., across the border, when a warrant for his arrest was sworn out by the parts of one of the alleged victims. Easton police, armed with extradition papers, went to the Canadian city only to find that he had left there for Boston.

Later he was arrested in Everett, Mass., and brought here on a warrant charging the murder of a 20-year-old girl. He is Dr. John F. Dilling, aged 50. He was arrested at the home of his sister, Mrs. Catherine McDonald. He waived extradition and accompanied the police to Easton.

One alleged victim is Melvina Oak, 20, who died following alleged surgical treatment by Dr. Dilling on May 25 last.

ATTACK IS MADE ON WOOL RATES IN TARIFF BILL

WASHINGTON, July 24.—Failing to get action from the Senate Finance committee majority, Senator Lenroot, Republican, Wisconsin, launched today in the Senate his fight to limit to sixty per cent. ad valorem the duties in the pending tariff bill on coarse wools, both in the raw and the manufactured state. His proposal met with sharp opposition from spokesmen for the committee and from states engaged in the production of wool and there frequent and, at times, sharp exchanges.

Warning his Republican colleagues that the 32 cents a pound duty proposed would result in an increase in the cost of woolen clothing, Senator Lenroot declared the Republicans would have difficulty in justifying to the people in the large cities proper protective duties for the wool producers, but that they could not justify this enormous equivalent ad valorem duty, equalling in some cases 137 per cent., on wool of a kind not produced in this country to any appreciable extent.

Before returning to its fight over wool, the Senate wound up its work on committee amendments in the flax, jute and hemp schedule. Two controversies developed. Democrats vigorously opposing the rates proposed on jute bagging for cotton and on cotton floor covering. Senator Robinson, Democrat, Arkansas, sought to have the rates reduced from 3-10 cents a square yard to 1-10 cent and 1-20 cent, respectively, but his amendment was rejected, 35 to 18, and the original rates approved, 31 to 17.

By a vote of 34 to 18, the Senate rejected an amendment by the same senator to cut from 35 per cent. ad valorem to 20 per cent. the proposed duty on cotton floor covering.

In 1921, over 3,500,000 people were carried by the Northwestern Pacific over San Francisco bay without an accident.

Wedding licenses have been issued by the clerk of the corporation court to the following:

William Leslie Dinean and Verlie Dand Cooper, Siles City, N. C.; Walter Fred Kennedy and Lucia Haskins Crews, Danville; George W. Buckner and Clara Duff Gills, Danville; Carrie Warren and Lillie Gibbs, Caswell county.

TWO MEMBERS OF BIELASKI PARTY ARE ARRESTED

MEXICO CITY, July 24.—(By Associated Press).—Madame Mito and Jesus Barceas, two members of the automobile party from which A. Bruce Bielaski, formerly of the American department of justice, recently was kidnapped were arrested here this afternoon.

Mr. Bielaski is still at liberty. At 6 o'clock tonight Bielaski and his wife left their hotel to keep a dinner engagement; there was no indication that the authorities intended to arrest them. The American embassy is in constant touch with events, with the evident intention of rendering possible assistance if the Americans were held.

Barceas was arrested while taking lunch in a hotel in company with his wife who was not detained. Madame Mito was arrested about the same time while lunching in another part of the dining room. The two were taken to Belem prison.

Barceas is a Mexican citizen; Madame Mito is French. So far as known the French charge has made no official protest.

It is understood that the order of arrest was issued by a local district judge at the request of the Cuernavaca judge investigating the alleged kidnapping.

Mr. Bielaski would make no statement on the incident tonight.

CLAIMS ARE DUPLICATED

NEW YORK, July 24.—Counsel for the receivers of Allan A. Ryan, Wall street broker, who last Friday filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy listing liabilities totalling more than $32,000,000, reported today that there had been a great deal of duplication in the schedules and that the actual liabilities would amount to not more than $15,000,000. Secured claims, it was added, amounted to about $11,000,000.

Shopmen's Strike Brewing For At Least 15 Months

WASHINGTON, July 23.—That the railroad shopmen have been preparing for the strike now in progress since April, 1921, and waited 15 months because of a desire to support a demand for a nation-wide strike, were statements made today by P. J. Conlon, vice-president of the International Association of Machinists at a public mass meeting here.

Union officials learned April 3, 1921, Mr. Conlon said, that the national agreement with railroads was to be abolished, although the railroad labor board did not act until April 14. When individual agreements were sought, he declared, the unions "went into identical demands from every road we approached which indicated to us there was some central agency or authority directing the fight against us."

"Then we realized," Vice-President Conlon continued, "that we would have to sit tight and suffer in silence until enough grievances had been accumulated to support a demand for a nation-wide strike."

Of the 1,100 decisions handed down by the labor board, the speaker listed 700 as favorable to the railroads and 400 as "nominally in favor of our side," but of the latter, he said, "at least 300 were not put into effect by the roads and therefore did not mean anything."

Asserting that the strike leaders were well satisfied with the situation, Mr. Conlon said:

"I generally take 30 to 60 days to make a shop strike effective but for this one I had been on 16 days. More than 250 trains had been cancelled out of Chicago, the West Virginia non-union coal mines were shut down, and the iron and steel industries were coming to a halt. And we have hardly started yet."

LUMBER INDUSTRY SEEKS REFORM

CHICAGO, Ill., July 24.—Reorganization of practices in the lumber industry is being effected here at the convention of the National Lumber Manufacturers Association, according to Wilson Compton, secretary-manager of the association, who today informed a representative of the Christian Science Monitor that the lumbermen were getting behind Herbert Hoover's general plan for standardization and elimination of waste in the industry.

Representatives of about 170 trades, professions and allied industries concerned in the distribution and use of lumber are meeting in an effort to bring this about.

A new code of ethics and practices will result, according to Mr. Compton and manufacturers, distributors and consumers of lumber alike, will be benefited. Involved in the problem is the question of national unified inspection under the auspices of the National Association, which will be in effect a certification of quality to the American people. The plan is to grade and mark each piece of lumber at the sawmill in such a way as to insure to the ultimate consumer the quality of the product.

This action follows in the steps of the National Hardwood Lumber Association, which acted somewhat similarly on the same issue here last month.

Book Not Indecent; Vice Society to Pay

NEW YORK, July 23.—The Court of Appeals has upheld, it was announced yesterday, an award of $2,500 made by a jury in the Supreme Court in 1920 to Raymond D. Halsey in an action he brought against the Society for the Suppression of Vice for the arrest in connection of Theophile Gauthier's "Madeniselle de Maupin."

At the first trial of Mr. Halsey's action he obtained a verdict of $1,000 but the society succeeded in having this set aside on a technicality.

Mr. Halsey was employed by Mr. DeWitt Wilson, Inc., a book concern at 30 Church street, when an agent for the society bought a copy of "Madeniselle de Maupin" from him and arrested him as soon as he had read as far as the prize where the heroine decides not to masquerade as a man any longer.

He Is Acquitted.

When the case came up in Special Sessions Mr. Halsey was acquitted of the charge of selling indecent literature. Then he began his legal fight to put the Society for the Suppression of Vice definitely in the wrong, which has resulted in the careful personal of "Madeniselle de Maupin" by Justice of the Supreme Court and the Appellate Division and the judges of the Court of Appeals.

In effect, they all reached the conclusion that every book is as much entitled to one bite as is the dog of legal fame, that "Madeniselle de Maupin" was not to be condemned for one sin, or whatever it was the book off the page to which the society objected and that there was no ground for Mr. Halsey's arrest.

Jury Had Book.

When the society appeared from the first verdict of $1,000, however, the Appellate Division held that the case should be tried again, because the justice who presided at the first trial had ruled as a matter of law that the society had not violated a question which should have been left to the jury.

The second trial took place in 1920 and the jury after reading "Madeniselle de Maupin" as zealously as had their predecessors, decided that the book was worth $250 more than the first jury had estimated.

SPEAKING OF RADIO—OR RELAY WIRELESS

WASHINGTON, July 24.—American radio devices have no chance of competing with the "whistling language" of the nature on the island of Gortaria, in the Canaries, according to a report to the Commerce Department today from F. A. Henry, United States Consul at Tenerife.

"The inhabitants of this island," he said, "use of a system of whistling signals, can convey bits of news and information over considerable distances with great rapidity. The system dates back hundreds of years."

WILL HAVE OPPOSITION

NEW ORLEANS, July 24.—It developed tonight that one of Louisiana's eight representatives in Congress—H. Garland Dupre, of the second congressional district—would have opposition in the Democratic primary September 12.

It was announced that A. T. Higgins, a member of the lower House of the state legislature from Jefferson Parish, had failed nomination papers at Baton Rouge and would appear at the primary.

Mr. Dupre, the other congressman who will have no opposition.

Jugo-Slav Lads Have Opportunity To Put Down Gun and Wield Hoe

Up to the signing of the armistice it seemed to those picturesquely dressed boys of Jugo-Slavia that life was just one war after another, for during the preceding eight or nine years each group of youths had been called into service almost as fast as they became old enough to endure military duty. Now they are finding the advantages of peace—and are making the most of them.

With nine tenths of the people of Jugo-Slavia engaged in agriculture in normal times, peace has brought definite economic results. Proof is found in the report of the Ministry of Agriculture of Jugo-Slavia which shows that the agriculture exports for 1921 were double those for 1920. And the government is leaving no stone unturned to encourage export development along this line.

American capital and genius has recently been called in by Jugo-Slavia in the construction of a 1200 mile railway system which will open up the Adriatic ports of Split and Kotor (formerly Spalato and Cattaro) for the export of the vast wealth of the grain fields, orchards and forests of the interior. The Government has awarded contracts also which will link up narrow gauge lines to supplement the greater system.

The completion of these transportation facilities will open up opportunities for mining interests to develop a variety of mineral deposits which are unequaled in Europe, according to H. I. Smith of Denver, Colo., an American expert who served with an advisory staff from this country which made a survey of these resources. As yet those huge sources of wealth have been barely touched, but one of the greatest copper mines of all Europe has been developed.

AUSTRALIA REJECTS GERMAN CONSULS

LONDON, July 24.—The Australian federal government has refused to agree to the appointment of German consuls in Australia, says a Reuters dispatch from Melbourne.

The Australian Prime Minister, W. M. Hughes, while not asserting that trade never can be resumed with Germany, declares that the Australian ministry does not feel called upon to "grease the wheels for German trade."

Eskimo Tribesman Kills Seven Men

EDMONTON, Alberta, July 23.—Out of the frozen north a number of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police has just arrived with news of the murder of seven men by Eskimos who ran amok on Herschel Island and Hudson Bay, four months ago.

The victims were constable Knott, of the Mounted Forces, G. Binder, Hudson Bay and five of his tribesmen.

The Eskimo, a young seal hunter employed by Binder, killed his five comrades as they lay sleeping one night last March. The mounted police killed him, captured him and brought him back to Herschel Island where he was jailed to await trial for the murders.

Constable Knott was detailed to guard the Eskimo. One night the officer went his prisoner seized his rifle and killed him. When Binder threatened to cut off the escape the Eskimo killed him, too.

Making his way back to the tribe the murderer told his fellows he had killed seven men and declared he intended to wipe out the rest of the island.

Twenty-four hours later the Mounted Police recaptured him.

The prisoner may be brought to Edmonton for trial because of the little feeling running among his tribesmen at the Hudson Bay Post.

When he came to, he had a headache and a wife. He knew where the headache came from but he should not have where came the wife. She was John O'Leary, nee Clara Landay.

O'Leary today started court proceedings to annul the marriage.

Baby's Bath of Death Children's Prank, Say Hospital Authorities

NEW YORK, July 23.—Margaret Young, eight months old, of No. 60 Albany street, was called to death yesterday in a bathtub at Metropolitan hospital, Welfare Island, as the result of a childish prank, the authorities believe.

With a half dozen others, she was awaiting her turn to be bathed. She was sitting fully clothed on a board with slittings alongside the tub. The tub was empty. The attendant, described as "one of the most competent in the institution," was suddenly called from the room. She was absent only a few minutes.

Margaret was sitting in the tub when she returned. The hot water had been turned on and the child unconscious was enveloped in clouds of steam. The attendant returned and found Margaret in the tub.

"No blame attaches to the attendant," said Dr. Nelson W. Thompson, Deputy Medical Superintendent of the hospital, last night. "We are still investigating and will probably have an announcement to make tomorrow."

There were a half dozen other children in the bathroom, some of them five years old. As it would have been impossible for Margaret to climb from the board, it is believed one of the children lifted her into the tub and turned on the water.

All the children were so frightened last night they refused to talk, hospital authorities said.

Army's Sky Dragon Terrifies the Moros

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Super-human, all-seeing, all-powerful, a design sent to punish the sinful the direct emissary of the gods. Such is the monster that has been sweeping about the skies of the Philippines terrifying the warlike Moros.

The natives insist this huge half bird half beast with the speed of the eagle, the roar of thunder and armed with the lightning, has been sent by John, Sulu Archipelago.

However, the truth of the matter now develops as piloted by army aviators. And its primary purpose here is not the word of the Moro gods, but the word of the Great Father in Washington.

Thieves Used Acid Test In Selecting Silver

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 23.—A "metal application of the acid test" was made by burglars who ransacked the house of J. A. Gillies, of Hamden, the last two nights while the family was away at the shore.

They carried with them acid with which to test the quality of the family plate and after disregarding such silverware as did not measure up to their standard, took tableware valued at $2,000. For coats and seals, garments were taken at face value.

Paris "Old Masters" Prolific as Flivvers

PARIS, July 23.—An American—Thomas Knack—has just discovered that forty three of his collections of 107 pictures all alleged masters are more vulgar copies and as a result police investigations, following his complaint, have disclosed that a flourishing industry of copymaking exists in the Latin quarter. Scores of "studios" are found to be nothing more than factories for turning out copies in series.

Knack paid $30,000 for his collection of what he fondly imagined to be Cezannes, Pissarres, Renoirs, Sisleys, Signacs, etc. His anger when experts told him nearly half of them were forgeries may be imagined.

A number of intermediaries and picture dealers are involved. The police have visited several studios in the Montparnasse quarter and have seized quantities of canvases and documents showing the copy industry in its infancy, a big organization with ramifications all over France. It is controlled by a sort of syndicate which pays $15 to $20 apiece for copies of leading masters, selling many hundreds or even thousands.

Many well known art collectors are uneasy and are consulting experts.

Cigarettes made up in papers of different colors are said to be popular with New York ladies, who match their cigarettes to their frocks.

FERTILIZER USED ON 33 PER CENT OF COTTON CROP

WASHINGTON, July 24.—Commercial fertilizer was used on about 33 per cent. of the cotton acreage this year, or on about 11,500,000 acres, according to reports gathered by the United States department of agriculture.

On 249,000 acres of cotton, 249 pounds of fertilizer were applied per acre on the average and the total fertilizer used was about 1,429,000 tons, with an average value of $28.04 per ton a total value of $12,121,000 and an average value of $3.99 per acre.

North Carolina led all states in the application of commercial fertilizer to cotton production, having used 410 pounds per acre on average. North Carolina was followed closely by Virginia with 400 pounds per acre, but the other states are far below, South Carolina having used 280 pounds per acre, Georgia 218 pounds, Alabama 210 pounds, Florida, Mississippi and Tennessee each 200 pounds. Other states used still less. Little commercial fertilizer is used west of the Mississippi river.

North Carolina also used commercial fertilizer on the highest percentage of cotton crop acre—91 per cent. In Virginia, it was used on 93 per cent. of the cotton crop area. In South Carolina on 88 per cent, in Georgia on 83 per cent, in Florida on 80 per cent, in Alabama on 78 per cent, in Mississippi on 39 per cent, in Louisiana on 20 per cent, in Arkansas on 15 per cent, and in Texas only on 2 per cent.

In the cost of fertilizer per acre of cotton using it, North Carolina again led with an average of $6.37. In Virginia the average per acre was $6.19, in South Carolina $4.12, in Georgia $3.23, in Arkansas $3.02, in Mississippi $2.95, in Alabama $2.92, in Louisiana $2.85, in Texas $2.65, in Florida $2.65, and in Tennessee $2.05.

Comparisons cannot be made with former years because this was the first year this inquiry has been made in its present form.

COTTON COMPRESS GREATLY IMPROVED

LOS ANGELES, July 24.—Addressing the committee chairman of the Chamber of Commerce and the Pacific Southwest cotton growers, W. D. Nesbit, head of a large cotton business in Birmingham and Mobile, Ala., told his hearers that the greatly improved method of cotton compressing, as now being used at Los Angeles Harbor, will do much to aid the industry in this section.

The latest type of compress has been installed at the harbor under a pressure of 450 tons, it reduces the size of bales so that the cotton weighs between 32 and 35 pounds per cubic foot. The compress automatically creates bales of the same size and density and with equal weights, thus standardizing the handling and saving labor.

Mr. Nesbit sees a splendid future for the Pacific Southwest. He stated that the type of cotton grown here has an additional silkiness or smoothness as compared with the Egyptian cotton that probably permits its use to greater advantage in high finished fabrics to which the cotton grown in Egypt is so well suited.

FERGUSON NOSES OUT CUBBERSON AS SECOND

DALLAS, Texas, July 24.—The Texas election bureau announced tonight that it was virtually certain that former Governor James E. Ferguson has nosed out Senator Charles A. Culberson as runner-up man to oppose Earl F. McFarland who led the Democratic nomination for United States senator in Saturday's primary.

Governor Neff was renominated without necessity of a runoff primary, which is to be held August 25, having a substantial majority over the combined vote of his three opponents.

Leaders in the congressional races are: Black, first district; Fox and Burns, second; Ravburn, fourth; Summers, fifth; Garrett, eighth; Manns and Flynn, ninth; Connally, eleventh; Williams, thirteenth; Cunningham and Hergberg, fourteenth; and Garner, in the fifteenth. The nomination of the following appears to be assured: the election bureau announced, Black, Summers, Garrett, Connally, Williams, and Garner.

Goodrich

announces

new tire prices

—lowest cost mileage ever known

Effective July 20th, Goodrich establishes a revised price list that is a base line of tire value. It gives the motorist the buying advantage of knowing that whatever size tire he selects is of the same quality—the Goodrich one-quality standard. It gives him the longest mileage, the most satisfactory service and the highest quality his money can buy. Results will prove that it is impossible to buy tire mileage at lower cost.

Scoop's Colyum
DRAKES BRANCH, July 25 (By the Wireless)---Now that Wilson has come out in the water praising the naval service of Senator Swanson during the trying war, thoughtful and conservative Virginians are more eager than ever to order their endorsement. The chairman of the Naval Committee of the Senate, Swanson performed great service in strengthening and organizing this branch of our fighting force and in his own right is a most important factor in the war. No one knows better than Woodrow Wilson what the Navy accomplished in defending the nation and in safeguarding the lives of our soldiers on the perilous seas. He gives Senator Swanson full credit for his untiring efforts in putting over the navy program, as well as for his own part in it. On supporting the Virginians will have their first opportunity to express their feelings towards the man who has been an enviable place in the councils of the nation, and has endeavored himself to the people of the Old Dominion. There is no question in our mind as to the result. It seems to be only a matter of the size of the majority. However, it behooves every admirer of our senior senator to go to the polls and add his name to the tribute to the cause that we may have a full expression of the whole people. Westmoreland Davis, a millionaire who gathered his fortune in New York, but maintains a residence in the Shenandoah Valley, is regarded as a political accident. He has campaigned the State from end to end without developing any strength to speak of. He is now on the home-stretch with flat feet. His race will soon be run. The green hills of Virginia on next Tuesday night, Davis need not bother to wait up for the returns. A conservative estimate is that Swanson will carry the State by more than 50,000 majority.

IN ETERNAL ICE
Would you like to get away from civilization and heat and join Roald Amundsen, explorer, first on his air-plane flight to the North Pole, then drifting seven years in the schooner Maud locked in the Arctic ice?
We cannot go with Amundsen, but from his life we can learn something of tremendous advantage to each of us—that no obstacle is great enough to keep us from our goal if we refuse to become discouraged and if we keep everlastingly after what we want. Amundsen is a Norwegian, 50 years old. He made his first exploration trip in 1897, when he was 25. This trip was a dash for the South Pole. It failed. Did Amundsen quit discouraged by failure and the terrific hardships of the land of eternal ice? No. He kept after what he wanted for 14 years.
And in 1911 he reached the South Pole. He had gained what he wanted had done something no other man ever had done. For Amundsen was first to reach the South Pole, and his name will endure in history or legend when the civilization that we now have on earth will be dimly remembered. If not entirely forgotten.
You wonder who puts up the money for these polar trips. It will interest you to know that Amundsen is not a millionaire and that it has taken him 17 years to get the funds to finance the seven-year trip aboard the schooner Maud.
Most of us would have quit after being turned down for a few years. That's why most of us are failures. Failure usually is just an abili name for gutter. And most men lose heart and "throw the sponge" on the very eve of success.
Maybe you have wondered if these polar exploration trips are worth while. Are they sensible investments? On one of his trips, in 1903, Amundsen proved that the north magnetic pole is not a fixed locality like a post driven into the ground, but that it probably moves continually. That is valuable knowledge, typical of what is learned from each trip into the Frozen North. Amundsen's present trip will seek, chiefly, knowledge about the weather and what makes it. That's well worth while—for we talk more about the weather than anything else, yet know very little about what causes its eccentricities.

"Well, is an old fool!" Andrew continued. "I say, there is nothing any of us can do for Roger; he'll sleep like a baby tonight and be all right in the morning. I'm going out and I shan't be back until late but I'll take my key and I won't disturb you if you'll tell Carter not to put the chain on the door."
He strode heavily from the room and in another moment Miss Drake and Hobart followed.
"It's for nothing to set the table for them; they don't hardly touch a thing!" Carter mourned, as he and Miles cleared away the final debris of the meal. "I'm sure I don't know what's come to this house, nor where it's going to end!"
"What's there to be scared of?" Miles asked stoutly. "I've seen nothing baring that fainting spell of Mr. Roger's today. Is he often took like that?"
Carter shook his head.
"Only once before and that was just a day or two after—after the constable brought Mr. Hobart home when he'd been walking in his sleep. That's what you heard, ain't it, William?" He asked the question with almost pathetic eagerness.
"No," William replied bluntly. "If you want the truth I heard he was either drunk or crazy!"
"Not a thing had he touched that night, for I had the only set of keys to the wine cellar!" Carter asserted solemnly. "I've yet to see Mr. Hobart in liquor but I can't say as much for Mr. Andrew! Mr. Andrew was a trial to the rest of the family when he came back, though he's toned down considerably, especially in his language. It was shocking to hear, William!"
"I shouldn't be surprised," Miles observed. "Did he bring those tips back with him, too, from Australia?"
"You mean what happened last Monday?" Carter lowered his voice.
"If you want to know my opinion from what I could get out of Edward I think Mr. Andrew was shamming, though the Lord only knows why!"
Miles glanced sharply at the old man but his tone was casual as he remarked:
"He was playing a trick on Edward, maybe, but there was no fake about Mr. Roger's case. I'm glad he's given up the stock market before he lost everything, though sometimes I've wished that the money never came in the first place! It was that made all three of them act queer long ago, and though I almost forgot about it in the years between, perhaps they've been wrong in the head since they acted queer when they came into their money!"
"I remember when the news came and though they were excited it struck me then that not one of them seemed really happy about it or even surprised. Mr. Hobart seemed to think only of getting back at other folks for all the years of hardship making other folks poor! It gave me the shivers to hear him. You would have thought that there was a death in the house!" continued Carter. "They didn't talk to each other any more; they had to, didn't scarcely look at each other and it seemed as though there was almost hatred between them! Mr. Andrew had up his temper and he'd never showed before and other times Mr. Roger would break down and go all to pieces right out of a clear sky; only Mr. Hobart kept a level head on his shoulders and all at once I noticed that the hair at each side of his forehead was turning gray—and him only 23! But quiet years came after, and comfortable ones, and I forgot until this trouble now brought it all back to me!"

CHAPTER XIV
Like two housebreakers, Sergeant Miles and Scottie stole up the back stairs that night and halted before the door at the end of the hall.
As he drew the skeleton keys from his pocket Miles indicated the traces of wax which still adhered to the lock, then whispered: "Andrew! He wanted to get in here mighty bad, didn't he?"
Scottie nodded, not trusting himself to speak, and his companion oiled the lock and key-hole carefully before setting to work. He made no noise but the minutes dragged out interminably while the other watched and listened tensely for a possible interruption. The key clicked faintly in the lock and the door swung slowly inward.
"Wait till I close the door," Miles commanded; then as a tiny light gleamed out: "Good! There's a bolt on the inside and we can't be surprised. Andrew may come home at any time and I have a hunch he'll try to finish then what he started this afternoon."
"It looks as though he'd made a pretty thorough job of it if destruction was his object," Scottie commented dryly as the rapier-like thrust of light played about the dark blackness of the room. "May the devil take us if we're not in a museum!"
They were in a huge, low-ceilinged room which had evidently been long unused for human occupancy. On the left trunks and packing cases of all shapes and sizes were heaped pell-mell with broken glass. From their depths a heterogeneous mass of relics and manuscripts had been scattered in all directions. Haughty, though fragmentary, and humble cooking pots, fear-some weapons, bits of crumbled carving, and among them all roll after roll of ancient parchment together with notebooks of a more modern day.
Scottie approached a long, metal-lined box and after one glance within promptly retreated.
"It's a mummy!" Miles gazed briefly down at the small, tightly swathed form and then turned differently away. "If Andrew found what he was looking for this afternoon, we are wasting our time, but I don't think he was successful. Those notebooks must contain the result of years of study and classification and see how the pages are torn out and scattered about!"
"Then it was writing that Andrew was after, and modern writing at that, for he's only thrown the parchments aside!" Scottie gathered up a handful of the loose sheets and examined them critically.
"But what was he looking for? That's what we've got to find out. What would Roger have written and carted all around the world with him that his brother would want badly enough to steal? Mr. Wells told me that the three brothers were devotedly attached to each other, but I have seen small evidence of affection on Andrew's part for any of them."

"Do you see all these odd caskets of metal and carved bone?" Scottie was playing his torch over the ancient relics which littered the floor. "Perhaps we can find one or two that hasn't been broken open."
It was long past midnight when they departed at last and Miles remarked with a shrug:
"I guess we'd better give it up, old man. If there was anything here bearing on our problem Andrew must have made off with it, after all."
Scottie suppressed a sneeze heroically as the dust which still floated in the air assailed his nostrils, and replied in a strangled voice:
"The mould of the ages is eating into my lungs and there's a musty, spicy reek from that mummy—"
"The mummy?" Miles struck his hands together softly. "It's the one place we never thought of, Scottie! We're not beaten yet!"
He darted over to the long, coffin-like case and his companion followed somewhat reluctantly.
"The person doesn't appear to have been disturbed since the Pyramids were built," he ventured. "What are you about, lad? You're never going to undress it!"
"It's Peruvian, not Egyptian, don't you see the inscription?" responded Miles in a quick, excited whisper. "Moreover, the wrappings about the head and breast have been unwound within a very few years it most and then replaced!"
Miles inserted his hand with infinite care beneath the displaced fabric which covered the shrunken, flint-like breast and drew forth a slender roll of parchment. Scottie hastily returned his unwelcome burden to its original position and strode around the case to stare over his friend's shoulder at the discovery.
"It's in figure writing!" he exclaimed disgustedly as the roll unrolled. "You'd never be able to read it and it would do you no good if you did! I've no doubt it's a prayer. Put it back, Owen, it's defying Providence!"
"Defying your grandmother!" Miles interrupted. "This message is in Egyptian hieroglyphs, Scottie. I know that much!—Egyptian picture writing in the wrappings of a Peruvian mummy!—Get me a piece of that parchment from the floor, will you?"
Scottie complied and held both his torch and that of his companion while the latter compared the texture of the scrolls. At length he drew a quick breath and faced the older man with shining eyes.
"I can't read a word of it as you say, but by the Lord Harry I think we've got it! There are professors in town who can decipher it for us and be depended upon to hold their tongues afterward, and well as that it reaches one of them tomorrow!"
"But it can't be what Andrew was looking for!" Scottie expostulated. "He certainly cannot transcribe hieroglyphs!"
"Nor would he have known that it was what he wanted if he had found it!" retorted Miles. "Can't you see, old man? That was the intention of the person who placed it there. It is something that had to be preserved and yet must be undecipherable to anyone not a student of Egyptianology!"
Miles stowed papyrus and parchment carefully in his pocket, switching off his torches they stole from the room, but as Miles unlocked the door behind them as companion seized his arm.
"Do you hear that?" Scottie's husky whisper breathed in his ear. "Somewhere up, and there's a wee streak of light coming from that room at the front. Whose is it?"
"Hobart's," whispered Miles in reply. "Platten yourself against the wall and walk as lightly as you can, we're going to look into this!"
Foot by foot they crept along the hall until they neared Hobart's door, and then halted as though transfixed, for the voice of Miss Drake trembling and charged with long pent-up emotion, came to the listener's ears.
"It is no use! If we were the only ones concerned I would have kept this from you but it shall not be visited upon the next generation! I know the truth, Hobart! I have all ways known!"

BOB VANDERPOOL. When Mrs. Vanderpool informed Peggy that Bob would not return until 11:30, Peggy left with the astonished mother an invitation for Bob to call for her at that hour.
GO ON WITH THE STORY
FOR goodness sake, Peg—telling Bob to come over at midnight! You'll shock Mrs. Vanderpool to death, and make Bobby lose his beauty sleep!
Peggy had been making a grimace at the unseemly Mrs. Van, whose voice came icily over the wire.
"Well, old darling, you needn't lose YOUR beauty sleep sitting up with us!"
Peggy was tapping a cigarette against her finger-nail.
"A little noisy tonight, dear!" Winnie flushed, then threw up her head as if summoning courage.
"Well, my mother and yours will expect me to sit in if any boy calls on you at half-past eleven with the folks away that all!"
Peggy snickered.
"My mother and yours and Uncle Paul are tussling and tussling to jazz on the Yacht Club roof—and they expect me to be sweetly napping in my gush nightie at 10 of a summer eve—fine hey!"
Then with an attempt at mollifying Winnie. But honey, I'm not sledge-hammering you get me. I'd get Bob to give me a swing down the Drive in his gas-wagon, say to Colton's for an ice and back, thank all the angels!"
"But Peg—you really aren't going to start out for a ride at 12 o'clock?"
"With Bobby, my angel!"
Winnie looked as she felt—shocked and worried.
Peggy had put the cigarette in her mouth and was reaching for a match when Winnie's exclamation made her drop the thing quickly.
"Oh, what's ailing you, Win? Don't be a ground gripper. I'm fed up with

Some Life
by Jackie Coogan, Jr.
BY JACKIE COOGAN, JR.
It was in Los Angeles that I met Charlie Chaplin.
I was speaking my pieces at one of the theaters. Charlie heard me.
The next day he came over to our hotel. I was napping in a big chair. Someone shook me.
"Wake up Jackie. Here's Mr. Charlie Chaplin to see you!"
I rubbed my eyes and got down off the chair and said: "I'm pleased to meet you!"
Then I climbed back and went to sleep again.
The next day he came again. He asked me if I would like to stay in Los Angeles and play with him. I said I didn't care if I did.
Next to my daddy, I think Charlie Chaplin is the most wonderful man in the world. He is my best friend and he loves me. I know.
He gives me many presents—pool tables, wrist watches, boats and everything.
Sometimes Sono, the Jap chauffeur, would take us out to the country. Charlie would tell me funny stories. Sometimes he would play the violin for me.
It was fine. He can play the piano and cello, too and sing like a wonder.
Once he gave me a snail. His name was Mike.
Charlie had another named for me. He would be on the Saturday and watch them race. Mike beat. I liked to watch his stomach wiggle.
One afternoon we were working on "The Kid." We came to a part that Charlie said ought to go big. "We should make this stand out," he said. He asked for some suggestion.
I gave it to him. "Take about 30 feet of daddy's nose."
His nose is the biggest thing on his face. He said two faces. Charlie and I laughed so hard we decided to quit work.
So we went off and raced Mike and Lil.
And Mike beat again.
Tomorrow: "Why I think Donnie Fairbanks is funnier than Charlie Chaplin."

MARVIN IN S.C. IN INTEREST OF THE GROWERS

(Special from Tobacco Growers' News Bureau)
RALEIGH, N. C. July 24—Col. E. Marvin, of Kentucky, a leader of the Burley pool, who addressed 1,000 farmers at last week's series of record-breaking meetings in the old belt of North Carolina and Virginia, reached South Carolina today where he will aid in directing the membership drive which ends on July 21 for the growers of the Palmetto state.
Col. Marvin was in at the finish of the Wisconsin drive and helped to attain the 75 per cent sign-up of tobacco which the organized growers of Wisconsin have just completed.
More than 200 contracts from South Carolina reached Raleigh headquarters today as a beginning towards the goal of a thousand contracts more in this week's drive. The meetings at Greenville, in which Marvin took part, resulted in 100,000 pounds increase of tobacco for the association.
W. P. McKnight, W. J. Moore and S. S. Mutchum were among the prominent planters who signed at these meetings.
Col. E. Marvin, of Kentucky, all speak at Andrew's next Saturday and a large crowd is expected to hear the prominent leader of the Burley pool. Richard Carroll of the Jumbos prominent colored educator will address a meeting of his people at Dillon on the morning of Sunday, July 23 and will hold a second meeting on Saturday afternoon at Mullins.
Following the great mass meeting of tobacco growers at Rockwell, S. C. where the growers have held and turned over a warehouse to the organized growers the banks of the town are to lead their local people to the association after a conference summer vacation.

GIRLS' SUMMER FROCKS

What the young girl will wear this summer—if she can get them—will be like these three.
The party dress is of chiffon and is simple and sporty with a trimming of lace and a transparent front panel to the blouse and its many details.
The second frock is of printed silk and is with crepe de chine and is also shown in printed silk with a cotton crepe. It can be either decorative or plain according to the material.
The third dress, again, is used to make the simple jumper dress and for costume. It is shown in cotton, chamois and crepe. There is no lack of variety in style for ten-year-olds.

ALLIED DEBTS IN RELATION TO REPARATIONS

PARIS, July 24.—(By The Associated Press)—General consideration of allied debts in their relation to the reparations question now seems to be assured for the forthcoming meeting of the representatives of the allies in London. This was the conviction expressed today in reparations circles.

The allies having conclusively determined that the United States government under no circumstances purposes to be drawn into a conference in which debt cancellation is to be the chief topic and the allied governments have decided to go ahead independently of the United States. The hope was expressed today, however, that any economic improvement which would result from even a partial remission of debts and a revision in the total of the indemnities to be paid by Germany would not be ignored by the American government if, several years hence, the American government reconsidered its attitude toward its European debtors.

ERIE STRIKERS KILLED

HORNELL, N. Y., July 24.—Frank Ardoun, a striking snookman was shot and instantly killed and Charles Cesaro, another striker, was wounded in the neck here early today in a battle with Erie police officers in the yards. Erie detectives Artompa Rutski, Mark Valentine and Vincent Keener are locked up in the county jail, charged with manslaughter, first degree. According to the officers, an effort was made to arrest one of the men as they were talking with others in the yards, whereupon the men whipped out revolvers and began firing. The officers dodged behind a concrete building and answered the fire. Ardoun fell.

Two 32-calibre revolvers were found on the ground beside the dead man, one of them, of rim-fire type, contained centre-fire cartridges, three of which were dented but did not explode. Several chambers in the other revolver were empty.

Ford Sees Great
Future In Mexico

Putting People to Work
Will End Forever Troubled Republic's Internal Strife, He Believes.

DETROIT, July 25.—Development of Mexico industrially and agriculturally to a point where it will take its place as one of the leading powers of the world is the plan of Henry Ford.

This has been learned by The Associated Press from sources close to the manufacturer. Mr. Ford, it was learned, proposes to end forever the internal strife in the Southern Republic by "putting the people to work,"
as he expresses it, by making it possible for the people to obtain education and by devising ways elevating the masses in the country to the highest possible standard.

The motor manufacturer wants to keep the hands and minds of the Mexican common people occupied so "they will have no time for fighting." This it became known, is the substance of Mr. Ford's theory, one that he hopes to carry out in the near future by erection of a number of factories throughout the more important states.
In short, it was said, he hopes to reveal to the people of Mexico how they can help themselves.

The first step in this program may be taken soon with establishment of a Ford motor assembling plant in the state of Coahuila, probably in Saltillo.
Business interests of that city and the governor of the State are known here to be eager to bring about the industrial development. Mr. Ford, it is known, would enter upon his development program immediately upon erection of the necessary factory buildings. Similar enterprises would be established by Mr. Ford in other parts of the country if the plan is carried out, it was intimated.

Mr. Ford is said to believe that if the Mexicans once are taught the value of industry, better methods of agriculture and their possibilities individually and as a nation, the advance of the country will prove to be one of the most notable in history.

The manufacturer is known to have an abiding faith in the people of the country. He announced his idea several years ago, at a time when many persons in the United States were advising that the United States send troops to "clean up Mexico."

At that time Mr. Ford said:

"Let me invade Mexico with factories and give the people something to do. Then there will be no more war there."

As the initial step carrying out his plan Mr. Ford for the last few years has been training Mexicans in his automobile factories here. Several hundred representative workmen from the Southern Republic have become skilled workmen in the local plants.
Now they are ready to return to their own country and become native foremen when the wheels of the Mexican Ford shops begin to turn. These men, it was explained, have learned American methods, adopted American standards of living, and have seen the benefit of the new Mexico. They will bring this enthusiasm on to their countrymen, the manufacturer believes,
and from this seed will sprout the end of the Mexican peonage system.

Mr. Ford, it became known, proposes to take to the Southern Republic all the ideas that he has worked out in this country. He would open schools where farmers would be taught the use of improved agricultural implements. He would make it possible for his workmen to become educated by attending school outside of working hours and see to it that the children of the poorer classes had educational advantages necessary for the welfare of the country.

It was learned that Mr. Ford believes that the people of Mexico have been exploited. He proposes to throw the present system into reverse and turn toward development.

PHOTOGRAPHERS IN SESSION.

CLEVELAND, July 24.—The day when women cannot be photographed in a ball gown because they forgot to bring it along is a thing of the past, it was demonstrated today at the annual convention of the Ohio-Michigan-Indiana photographers' association here.

L. J. Buckley, of Binghamton, N.
Y., showed several hundred delegates how stunning ball gown-effects can be devised with only a few yards of silk, a yard or two of tulle and a few ropes. Varying effects were produced none of which took more than ten minutes.

Besides the delegates, visiting photographers from Georgia, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Minnesota and other states and Canada attended.

WILL WEDDING BELLS RING
SIXTH TIME FOR HOPPER?

BALTIMORE, July 25.—Will wedding bells ring again for DeWolf Hopper—the sixth time?

The famous actor married five times, and twice in court, won't say.
Playing at Carlin Park theater in a revival of Gilbert and Sullivan operas, he refuses to discuss his marital affairs—even the summons served on him as preliminary to his fifth wife's suit for divorce.

Wife No. 5 is Mrs. Hedda Hopper, prima donna and movie star. She was formerly Edda Surry, of Philadelphia, and appeared on the stage in
"The Country Girl" and "The Quaker
Girl," and in the movies in "Sterling
Holmes" and "Six Cylinder Love."

Hopper's wives in chronological order were:
Ella Gardiner, his second cousin.
Ida Mocher, in the McCaul Opera Company with him.
Edna Wallace, singer and co-star
with him in many successes.
Nella Reardon Bergen, comic opera star and band soloist.

Edda Surry (whose stage name is Hedda Hopper).
Hopper is 54 and has been on the stage 33 years, starting in comedy roles. Among his successes were "Wang," "Pinafore," "The Mikado," "Erminie," "Hapland," and "El Capitán."

Hopper and his present wife have a five-year-old son, Bill. His first name really is William.
Custody of the child will be asked by the mother, says her attorney.

White Slave Trade In New Spurt;
Thrives On Europe's Poverty

By MILTON BRONNER.

LONDON, July 24.—One of the free traders that came to the world
last year was raging was the almost complete cessation of the white slave traffic.

"And one of the greatest curses that has come with peace and the unsettled conditions accompanying it is a resumption of this terrible traffic in human flesh."

This statement is made to me by Miss Anne Baker, secretary of the National Vigilance Association of Great Britain and secretary and director of an international bureau for the suppression of traffic in women and children.

Miss Baker was picked as a technical assistant to the white slave committee of the League of Nations.
That means her statements carry the weight of the highest authority.

"During the war transportation was hard to get and passports were closely scrutinized," Miss Baker says.
"This put a stop to shipment of women to Europe."

Now steamship passage is easy to obtain. And restrictions of passports are being removed.

Central Europe's Want Helps to Boost Traffic.

"And the worst of it—the terrible economic conditions, especially in Central Europe, play directly into the hands of the white slavers."

"The greater demand for white slaves is in the great cities of South America. The great source of supply is in Central Europe."

But the field is now larger than ever. Before the war, Russia and Poland were the main fields of exploitation. Now many of the neighboring countries are feeling the exhaustion of the worst plague spots is the free city of Danzig.

WILSON LAUDS SWANSON'S
WORK IN THE SENATE

RICHMOND, Va., July 24.—
Harry M. Smith, Jr., Richmond attorney, today received a letter from ex-President Woodrow Wilson in which the services of Senator Swanson during the war period are lauded. The letter was in reply to one from Mr. Smith, in which Virginia's senior senator is being opposed for re-nomination
by former Governor Westmoreland
Davis. The letter follows:

"My dear Mr. Smith: I am interested in what I find in your letter of July 22. I am glad to have an opportunity to say that Senator Swanson was at all times most loyal and helpful in his support of me while I was at the head of the government, not only loyal but always active and energetic in rallying the forces of the party in the senate to the support of administration measures. His help was invaluable throughout the period of the war.

"Hoping that the contest in Virginia will generate enthusiasm for the party of the party but not personal bitterness.

"Sincerely yours,
"WOODROW WILSON."

Prohibition Big Issue In Jersey
State Primary

NEWARK, N. J., July 25.—A contest for the Republican nomination for United States Senator on the Republican side and one for the gubernatorial nomination on the Democratic ticket will feature the State-wide primaries to be held in New York tomorrow. Prohibition has been made one of the principal issues of the senatorial campaign, while the liquor question and public utilities have been injected into the race for the Democratic nomination for governor.

United States Senator Joseph S.
Frelinghuysen, seeking re-nomination
as a Republican candidate, will be opposed by George L. Record of Jersey City, an attorney. He was defeated for the Republican nomination in 1918
by United States Senator Walter E.
Edge, and previously was defeated for the Republican nomination for Governor.

Senator Frelinghuysen in a recent address declared the people of the State have shown that they want prohibition and that the State would be no change in the Volstead act on the ground that modification of the act would mean virtual nullification of the eighteenth amendment.

The senator also has declared for protection of tariff, but take the whole matter out of politics by increasing the personnel of the Tariff Commission as provided for in a bill which he introduced in the Senate.
He has declared for continued aid for the farmers through the farm loan banks.

Opposing Senator Frelinghuysen in quest of the nomination, Mr. Record declared in a speech that curbing monopolies is the paramount issue and one which should be pressed to a finish. He has refused to permit the liquor question to be made an issue, so far as he is concerned, and while refusing to discuss it in his speeches, has promised to issue a statement on the subject.

Governor Edwards is regarded by the Democrats as entitled to the nomination for United States Senator on his record as chief executive of the State, and therefore, he will have no opposition. Governor Edwards' position is well known on the other side of the prohibition question, the beer bill which he signed having made one of the bases of a test in the federal courts of the eighteenth amendment.

The candidates for the Democratic sub-nominal nomination are Judge George S. Silzer of the Circuit Court and William E. Tuttle, State banking and insurance commissioner. Judge Silzer, who has the backing of the Democratic State organization, has as yet done no campaigning. Commissioner Tuttle has come out for a modification of the Volstead act and has stated his opposition to appropriations for State prohibition enforcement. On this point he has taken a stand contrary to that of Senator Frelinghuysen, expressing the belief that the people have shown that they do not want prohibition and therefore should not be burdened with a tax for something they do not want. He also has declared in favor of the return of the five-cent trolley.

State Senator William N. Runyon, who will be opposed for the Republican nomination for governor, announcing his stand on public utilities, declared for a law that would place the holding company under the same restrictions as its subsidiary or operating companies. The present state utilities law provides that the books of the holding company, which controls virtually all the street car lines of the State as well as the gas and electric light systems, may not be seized in investigations, while those of the subsidiary or operating companies may be seized.
